

This action is unnecessary and represents a significant cost to General Aviation. General Aviation has undergone security actions (recommended by AOPA, and implemented by this aircraft owner/operator) to prevent unauthorized use of our aircraft, and a hijack of a general aviation aircraft is unlikely. GA business has suffered greatly by actions post-9/11, an additional requirement of this nature may cause serious harm to this beneficial aviation component. Thank you for your consideration of my comments.